Gettysburg's Celebration Held in Theatre; Fireworks Will Be Held Later in Week

Congressman Rathbone Delivers Patriotic Address To Well Filled House; Westminster And Knights of Pythias Bands Give Concerts Despite Downpour.

A dull and dismally sodden day, with rain falling almost continuously, put a decided crimp in the program of the exercises scheduled for Gettysburg's celebration of the sesquicentennial of American independence and the sixty-third anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, Monday, and kept large crowds of anticipated tourists away from the town.

After a rainy Sunday afternoon, which sent tourists homeward or to cover elsewhere, rain began falling early Monday morning and continued in varying degree throughout the day and night, ending early this morning with a local thunder storm which seemed to have its center directly overhead.

While the precipitation apparently did not deter celebrators from taking full advantage of the lifting of the ban on the sale and use of fireworks in town, the Chamber of Commerce program was sorely blighted, although as much of the afternoon's entertainment as possible was provided.

Program At Theatre

Rain, however, necessitated staging the program arranged to be held at the rostrum in the National cemetery in the Lincoln Way Theatre, which was turned over without cost to the committee by P. W. Stallsmith, the proprietor.

The last-minute change in arrangements, necessitated by the unpropitious weather, left many persons under the impression that the exercises at the rostrum had been called off, and only those men and women around the center of town, who heard the announcement of the change to the theatre, took advantage of the opportunity of hearing Henry R. Rathbone, congressman-at-large from Illinois, speak.

The theatre was fairly well-filled for the exercises there, and those who heard the Illinois representative were filled with a refreshed patriotism and a new understanding of what Americanism is and what the Stars and Stripes stand for.

Sways Auditors

Over six feet, two inches tall, Congressman Rathbone possesses a mellow speaking voice, the resonance of which made it possible for him to be heard in every corner of the theatre without raising the intonation. A commanding figure, and a stirring speaker, the Illinois congressman was interrupted time and time again by applause from the enraptured and enthused auditors.

"The Fourth of July is the greatest American Day," the speaker asserted, "for on that day, two epoch-making events took place—the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the Battle of Gettysburg. It is a remarkable coincidence that two events of such world-wide importance should have happened so close together and both upon the soil of Pennsylvania.

"The Declaration of Independence marked the birth of the nation; the Battle of Gettysburg the salvation of the nation. At old Independence Hall there was displayed the heroism of peace, just as at Gettysburg there was exhibited the heroism of war. The framers of the Declaration braved the wrath of a monarch, and in doing so they knew full well that they took their lives in their hands. One of the most stirring speeches of history is that which was put in the mouth of John Adams by Daniel Webster, which begins with the well-known words 'Live or die, sink or swim.'

"The descendants of these Fathers of the Republic with the same courage faced the onset of the Southern host, as the proud waves of invasion swept up the green hillside of Gettysburg, only to dash themselves into spray on the Union line of rock.

"Deeds Not Alone"

"But Gettysburg was to go down in history not only for the deeds that were done there, but for the noble words that were spoken there. The address of Abraham Lincoln on that historic battlefield was the shortest and the greatest of patriotic and memorial orations. In that immortal speech the world-wide significance of the mighty conflict that there took place was clearly recognized. Lincoln knew that the struggle was to maintain the truths of the Declaration of Indepedence and the preservation of 'Government of the people, by the people, and for the people.'"

Congressman Rathbone's parents were in Lincoln's box at Old Ford's Theatre, Washington, on the night the Civil War president was fatally shot by Booth. From his parents, the congressman has secured a vivid impression of the shooting and the events which transpired subsequently.

He told how his father, in attempting to catch Booth after the shot was fired, was severely slashed in the arm by a large knife which the assassin carried. Mr. Rathbone related how Booth's spur became enmeshed in the folds of an American flag draped over a picture of George Washington on the front of the presidential box, and the fugitive was thrown to the stage.

"In falling," he continued, "Booth broke a small bone in his leg, which prevented him from escaping to some foreign country, and resulted ultimately in his being killed while attempting to evade capture in Virginia.

"It seems that the starry banner of our country was the real avenger of Lincoln's death." Mr. Rathbone then apostrophized the flag in a rousing peroration.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN FLORIDA

Funeral Services For Mrs. Alice Willis Are Held Here This Afternoon.

Mrs. Alice Edna (Shields) Willis, sister of George E. Shields, York street, died Saturday morning in the Orange General Hospital, Orlando, Florida. She was a native and former resident of Gettysburg, and is survived by her husband, Clarence A. Willis, one son, Charles Craig Willis; one brother, George E. Shields, York street, and three sisters, Miss Zora M. Shields, Miss Bessie B. Shields and Mrs. James Leithiser.

The body was brought here and funeral services were held this afternoon from the funeral parlors of H. B. Bender and Son, Baltimore street, the Rev. D. W. Woods officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

The pallbearers were Robert McGuigan, Charles T. Zeigler, Samuel Rhine and John A. Mumper.

Ball Player Is Burned By Powder

When he struck the pocket in which he was carrying a number of torpedoes, Dan Tapson, third baseman of the Hanover Raiders, received a severe burn on his right leg as the result of the entire lot of them exploding at the same time at Hanover Friday evening.

Tapson had put the torpedoes in his pocket in which also reposed a five dollar bill, and after throwing one of the noise-makers to the street, his hand, in the recoil, struck his pocket. The torpedoes functioned, badly burning his leg, and reducing the money to ashes. He was given medical treatment and was able to play in the game with Waynesboro Monday.

BLOOD POISONING VICTIM BURIED

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna M. Lohr, of near Seven Stars, who died at the Warner Hospital last Friday from the effects of blood poisoning, were held at her late home Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the Rev. Walter C. Pugh, of Fairfield, officiating. Interment was at Flohr's cemetery.

Pallbearers were A. J. Shank, W. J. Settle, Luther Baschoar, Harvey Rentzel, H. G. Bucher and Raymond E. Deardorff.

TO SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A.

"What is the Matter With China" is the subject of an address to be delivered this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Gettysburg College Y. M. C. A. by T. Y. Wang, a native of China, now taking a post graduate course at Columbia University, New York City. The lecture is open to the public.

Premature Celebrators Face Fines, Burgess Declares; Tourist Traffic Is Poor.

Gettysburg celebrated Independence Day "in the good, old-fashioned way."

Rain failed to dampen the patriotic spirit and fervor of young and old alike, and for hours before Monday dawned, the town echoed and re-echoed the "bang-bang" of fireworks.

But for a number of the premature celebrators, fines stare them in the face, for Burgess C. A. Heiges today said the police had taken the names of a number of persons who couldn't wait until Monday to celebrate.

At least six persons were burned by the premature explosion of fireworks, and were given treatments of tetanus antitoxin to prevent blood poisoning. Among those reported by local physicians to have been given administrations of the tetanus anti-toxin were: Chester Wisler, Harry Mumper, Glenn Stouffer, John M. Blocher, and two daughters, of Mr. and Mrs. Luther I. Sachs, Hanover street.

Town "Blue With Smoke"

The lifting of the ban on the sale and use of fireworks in Gettysburg was met with a spontaneous and wholesale purchase by "young America" of fire crackers, sparklers, colored fire, sky rockets, torpedoes to help in the proper observance of Independence Day.

And the day was well celebrated. From early in the morning until late at night, the crack and sparkle of fireworks filled the town. At several places, notably around the oval and on Baltimore street, miniature sham battles were fought by opposing groups of celebrators with cannon crackers.

The heavy, rain-laden atmosphere during the day kept the smoke of pyrotechincs close to the ground and at times the town was literally "blue with smoke."

Fines Are Pending

Opinion among local residents as to the advisability of lifting the ban on the sale and use of fireworks was divided. Numerous complaints were heard that the lifting of the ban was "all right" if the sale of the fireworks could have been prohibited until Monday, the day of the celebration, so that there would not have been so much shooting on Saturday and Sunday, and even before.

The younger generation, however, was unanimous for the "old fashion-

MOTHER KILLED AS KIDDIES SLEEP

Husband Fires at Intruder, But Children in Same Room With Woman Are Undisturbed.

Connellsville, July 6.—Mrs. Joseph Weisell, 45, was mysteriously shot and killed early today while asleep at her home near here. Her 11-year-old son, Edgar, who was sleeping at her side was not awakened by the report of the pistol that sent two bullets into his mother's body. Another child, Hazel, 9, asleep in the same room, also was undisturbed.

The husband who was sleeping in an adjoining room told police he was awakened by the sound of shots and grabbing a gun fired four shots through his door into the hall.

He then investigated, he said, and found his wife had been shot, notifying the neighbors.

Police found the lower floor of the house and one room on the second floor ransacked, but were unable to find any marks of forcible entry.

A resolution was introduced in the Senate asking Secretary of Agriculture Jardine to explain his reported connection with a Chicago school alleged to be teaching methods of beating rules of grain exchanges which Jardine himself made.

FIREMEN PLAN ANNUAL PICNIC

Dissention Arises Over Speaker For Outing to be Held at Bonneauville.

Committees for the annual meeting and picnic of the Adams County Firemen's Association to be held at Bonneauville, Labor Day, September 6, were named at a regular quarterly meeting at Fairfield, Monday evening. Representatives from each of the seventeen companies in the county organizations were in attendance.

A dissention arose among the delegates when a motion was placed before the association that Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, Democratic nominee for governor, be invited to address the annual meeting.

After a heated discussion on the motion, it was moved that another invitation also be sent John S. Fisher, the Republican nominee for governor. After lively debate, it was decided not to invite either nominee for the gubernatorial position, and the question of a speaker for the annual meeting was dropped for the time being.

A prominent member of the Gettysburg company, who has personally known Mr. Bonniwell for many years, said he will extend him a personal invitation to be present at the annual meeting, whether it be asked by the association or not.

Little other business was done at the meeting, except the voting down of a proposal to eliminate honorary members of the county organization. During the debate, on this question, James B. Aumen, Gettysburg, president of the county association, relinquished the chair in favor of H. J. Adams, of Centennial, so that he could participate in the discussion.

Committees Named

The committee appointments follow:

General committee: Frank Eck, C. B. Ormdorff, F. H. Paynter, A. J. Hahn, J. H. Weaver, Harry Weaver, C. H. Smith and L. F. Smith, Bonneauville; W. J. Craumer, Abbottstown; Bruce Knouse, Arendtsville; H. C. Golden, Aspers; B. E. Blocher, Bendersville; D. A. Washinger, Biglerville; C. J. Fohl, Biglerville; R. D. Bream, Cashtown; B. A. Services Held For Joseph Mathews

Joseph J. Mathews, well-known colored resident of Gettysburg, who died early Thursday morning, was buried in the colored cemetery here Saturday afternoon, following services at his home on South Washington street, and further services at St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion church. The Rev. R. J. Frazier, assisted by the Rev. D. W. Woods, officiated.

Special ritualistic services of the colored Masons were conducted both at the church and at the grave by members of Chosen Friend lodge, 43, of Harrisburg, of which the deceased was a member. Those in charge of this service were Benjamin Gray, George Johnson, Nathan Howard, Morris Lee, James Buck and Samuel Johnson.

Pallbearers were James Robert, Samuel Stanton, Howard Thomas, Emory Thomas, Raymond Brown and Harry Brown.

RECORD CROWD AT FAIRFIELD FOR OLD HOME WEEK

Firemen Have Successful Carnival Despite Downpour; Town Is Jammed For Celebration.

Rain, rain and more rain, deluged the Old Home Week celebration and Firemen's Carnival at Fairfield on Monday and also on Saturday, but such a slight inconvenience failed to dampen the ardor of the visitors to the event who were in search of a good time. A heavy downpour on Saturday evening just as the events were reaching their peak for the day sent a few scurrying to cover, the majority of them preferring to get the full benefits of the amusements offered. The same held true of the large crowd which "came early and stayed late" on Monday.

The committee in charge of the celebration stated that both from an attendance and a financial standpoint the observance just finished was the best which had ever been held in that community. Not only were the residents of the town one hundred per cent back of the enterprise but the response from the farmers living in that vicinity and the former natives of the town who entered into the celebration was one of the greatest which the town has ever had.

Receipts Were $2,500

A total of over $2,500 was taken in by the firemen at the various booths and amusements which they had provided, and while the net receipts have not as yet been tabulated, it is felt that they will far exceed the first estimates made by the members of the company. A meeting of the committees who helped arrange for the celebration has been called for Wednesday night at which time a settlement will be made of all the outstanding obligations.

Aside from the parade in the afternoon the outstanding feature of the program for Monday was the meeting of the Adams County Firemen's Association, at which representatives from all of the seventeen companies of the county were present. The firemen mulled over plans for the annual picnic which will be held at Bonneauville on Labor Day.

A number of the firemen arrived at Fairfield early in the day to take part in the parade which was held in the afternoon.

More than three hundred and fifty persons took part in the parade which was lead by the Hanover Boys' Club band. The new fire apparatus took a prominent part in the line of paraders while the old apparatus which was the predecessor of the modernized truck was manned by a bevy of the girls of the community attired in the garb of the old company. Boy Scouts, school children, "rough riders," and a number of comically dressed individuals helped to swell the line of march to the greatest proportion which the town has ever seen.

KILLED DEER OUT OF SEASON; HELD

Biglerville Men Working in Lycoming County Fined For Slaying Animals Illegally.

Charged with killing deer illegally and possessing venison illegally, four Biglerville men, working in Lycoming county, were arrested and have been fined $100 each, according to reports from W. B. McClarin, game protector of Lycoming county.

The four defendants were D. A. Washinger, Robert Reary, Dallis Foreman and Calvin Schofield. They are working in Lycoming county for the Musselman interests, in large apple orchards there.

The men are said to have shot and killed deer found in their orchards and to have eaten the venison without notifying the game protector that the animals had been doing damage.

KEZIAH KUFF IS BURIED SUNDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Keziah Elizabeth Kuff, whose age, according to family Bible records and as it appears on the death certificate, was 122 years, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Asbury Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Kuff, widow of William Kuff, died last Thursday evening, after a lingering illness. The services were in charge of the Rev. W. O. Lyles and the Rev. Mr. Johnson. Interment was in the colored cemetery.

GAME VIOLATORS PAY HEAVY FINES

John P. Marks and C. R. Weaver, both of Gardners, have paid fines of $100 each for claiming bounty fraudulently from the state game commission. The arrests were made by Leo Bushman, Adams county game warden.

Mr. Bushman also reported that Robert H. Baker, Iron Springs, has paid a fine of $10 for permitting a dog to chase small game during a closed season, and that David Shephard, of McKnightstown, has paid a fine of $25 for allowing a dog to chase deer.

MAN DIES WEEK AFTER MOTHER

Conrad Murtorff Expires Suddenly Shortly After Eating a Hearty Meal Monday.

Stricken as he arose after eating a hearty meal, Conrad J. Murtorff, 42, of Gardners Route 4, died suddenly Monday afternoon, from a hemorrhage of the lungs. His mother, the late Mrs. John E. Murtorff, died at her home on June 28, just a week before her son's death.

Mr. Murtorff had been dining with his family and about 3:30 o'clock he arose from the table and started to walk to an adjoining room when he was stricken. Before aid could reach him he had expired.

He is survived by his father, John E. Murtorff; his wife, two daughters, Irene and Lovina, and one brother, Dosh, Gardners Route 4.

He was a lifelong member of the Grace Evangelical church, of Uriah. Funeral services Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, meeting at the house, with further services at the church, the Rev. J. Womelsdorff officiating. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

DR. GEORGE HAY IS VISITOR HERE

Dr. George Hay and family, of Johnstown, visited friends and relatives in Gettysburg over the week-end. Doctor Hays' mother, Mrs. Anna M. Hay, is the author of the "Hay-Suppes Blue Book," and while in Gettysburg the Johnstown man presented copies of the book to Mrs. Mary Jane Himes, Mrs. Sallie Brown Cox, Mrs. Martha Hay O'Neal and Mrs. Katie Hay Nixon, all of Gettysburg, relatives of Doctor Hay and Mrs. Hay.

Colonel John Hay, of Revolutionary War fame, was the grandfather of the four Gettysburg women.

FUNERAL HELD AT IDAVILLE

Funeral services for Dale Richard Group, who died Wednesday evening, were held Saturday afternoon, with brief services at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Group, Idaville, and further services at the Evangelical church, Idaville, the Rev. J. Womelsdorf officiating. Interment at Idaville.

Pallbearers were Lloyd Hart, Abraham Myers, John Troup and Ralph Koontz.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

While the country at large was celebrating the birth of the nation 150 years ago, over the week-end, at least two local families were celebrating the birth of off-spring into their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bollinger, South Washington street, announce the birth of a daughter, Anna Elizabeth, Sunday morning.

At the Warner Hospital, Saturday afternoon, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel A. Meyer, Biglerville.

GENERAL SWEENEY DIES

(By Associated Press.)

Philadelphia, July 6.—Brigadier General Frank Sweeney, former inspector general of the Pennsylvania National Guard, who spent 40 years in the service, died in a hospital here today after a short illness. He was 67 years old and was retired from the guard in 1919.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Willard A. Litzenberger, of Bethlehem, and Philip Hughes, Gettysgurg Route 3, were admitted as patients to the Warner Hospital.

Motorist In Collision In Which Girls Were Hurt Is Held For Reckless Driving.

Five persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a series of week-end holiday accidents on roads near Gettysburg. Traffic was unusually heavy on Sunday morning and until midafternoon when rain marred the driving.

Of the five persons hurt, four were admitted to the Warner Hospital, where today they were reported to be resting comfortably.

Two young women were injured in a broadside crash at Cross Keys, east of New Oxford on the Lincoln Highway, Monday morning. They were Miss Ruth Cornman, of Towson, Maryland and Miss Phyllis Cecil, of Lutherville, Maryland.

They were occupants of a touring car driven by C. Guy Yateman, of Towson. Mrs. Yateman also was in the machine. The four were on their way to Carlisle.

As they were crossing the Lincoln Highway at Cross Keys, the Yateman machine was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Willard Foust, of Fayetteville, according to Patrolman A. L. Reese, of the local sub-station, who investigated the accident and who has laid a charge of reckless driving against the Franklin county motorist.

Girls Injured

Foust's machine, it is alleged by the Patrolman, struck the Yateman car broadside, pushing it completely off the road. Mrs. Yateman, it is said, was thrown out of the front seat of her husband's car but was only slightly injured.

Miss Cornman and Miss Cecil were occupying the rear seat when the accident occurred. Neither was thrown out. Miss Cornman, a niece of Martin Moul, Hanover, suffered a fractured pelvis and a contused back.

Miss Cecil's injuries were limited to a strained back and shock.

The Gettysburg ambulance brought the injured women to the hospital here. They were accompanied to the hospital by Mr. Moul.

Neither Foust or his wife, who was accompanying him, was injured. Both cars were damaged and were towed to a New Oxford garage.

MOTHER KILLED AS KIDDIES SLEEP

Husband Fires at Intruder, But Children in Same Room With Woman Are Undisturbed.

Connellsville, July 6.—Mrs. Joseph Weisell, 45, was mysteriously shot and killed early today while asleep at her home near here. Her 11-year-old son, Edgar, who was sleeping at her side was not awakened by the report of the pistol that sent two bullets into his mother's body. Another child, Hazel, 9, asleep in the same room, also was undisturbed.

The husband who was sleeping in an adjoining room told police he was awakened by the sound of shots and grabbing a gun fired four shots through his door into the hall.

He then investigated, he said, and found his wife had been shot, notifying the neighbors.

Police found the lower floor of the house and one room on the second floor ransacked, but were unable to find any marks of forcible entry.

A resolution was introduced in the Senate asking Secretary of Agriculture Jardine to explain his reported connection with a Chicago school alleged to be teaching methods of beating rules of grain exchanges which Jardine himself made.

FIREMEN PLAN ANNUAL PICNIC

Dissention Arises Over Speaker For Outing to be Held at Bonneauville.

Committees for the annual meeting and picnic of the Adams County Firemen's Association to be held at Bonneauville, Labor Day, September 6, were named at a regular quarterly meeting at Fairfield, Monday evening. Representatives from each of the seventeen companies in the county organization were in attendance.

A dissention arose among the delegates when a motion was placed before the association that Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, Democratic nominee for governor, be invited to address the annual meeting.

After a heated discussion on the motion, it was moved that another invitation also be sent John S. Fisher, the Republican nominee for governor. After lively debate, it was decided not to invite either nominee for the gubernatorial position, and the question of a speaker for the annual meeting was dropped for the time being.

A prominent member of the Gettysburg company, who has personally known Mr. Bonniwell for many years, said he will extend him a personal invitation to be present at the annual meeting, whether it be asked by the association or not.

Little other business was done at the meeting, except the voting down of a proposal to eliminate honorary members of the county organization. During the debate, on this question, James B. Aumen, Gettysburg, president of the county association, relinquished the chair in favor of H. J. Adams, of Centennial, so that he could participate in the discussion.

Committees Named

The committee appointments follow:

General committee: Frank Eck, C. B. Orndorff, F. H. Paynter, A. J. Hahn, J. H. Weaver, Harry Weaver, C. H. Smith and L. F. Smith, Bonneauville; W. J. Craumer, Abbottstown; Bruce Knouse, Arendtsville; H. C. Golden, Aspers; B. E. Blocher, Bendersville; D. A. Washinger, Biglerville; C. J. Fohl, Biglerville; R. D. Bream, Cashtown; B. A. Jacobs, East Berlin; S. L. Allison, Fairfield; D. C. Stallsmith, Gettysburg; G. A. McClellan, Gettysburg; Granville Jacoby, Littlestown; Werley Little, Littlestown; George J. Services Held For Joseph Mathews

Joseph J. Mathews, well-known colored resident of Gettysburg, who died early Thursday morning, was buried in the colored cemetery here Saturday afternoon, following services at his home on South Washington street, and further services at St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion church. The Rev. R. J. Frazier, assisted by the Rev. D. W. Woods, officiated.

Special ritualistic services of the colored Masons were conducted both at the church and at the grave by members of Chosen Friend lodge, 43, of Harrisburg, of which the deceased was a member. Those in charge of this service were Benjamin Gray, George Johnson, Nathan Howard, Morris Lee, James Buck and Samuel Johnson.

Pallbearers were James Robert, Samuel Stanton, Howard Thomas, Emory Thomas, Raymond Brown and Harry Brown.

RECORD CROWD AT FAIRFIELD FOR OLD HOME WEEK

Firemen Have Successful Carnival Despite Downpour; Town Is Jammed For Celebration.

Rain, rain and more rain, deluged the Old Home Week celebration and Firemen's Carnival at Fairfield on Monday and also on Saturday, but such a slight inconvenience failed to dampen the ardor of the visitors to the event who were in search of a good time. A heavy downpour on Saturday evening just as the events were reaching their peak for the day sent a few scurrying to cover, the majority of them preferring to get the full benefits of the amusements offered. The same held true of the large crowd which "came early and stayed late" on Monday.

The committee in charge of the celebration stated that both from an attendance and a financial standpoint the observance just finished was the best which had ever been held in that community. Not only were the residents of the town one hundred per cent back of the enterprise but the response from the farmers living in that vicinity and the former natives of the town who entered into the celebration was one of the greatest which the town has ever had.

Receipts Were $2,500

A total of over $2,500 was taken in by the firemen at the various booths and amusements which they had provided, and while the net receipts have not as yet been tabulated, it is felt that they will far exceed the first estimates made by the members of the company. A meeting of the committees who helped arrange for the celebration has been called for Wednesday night at which time a settlement will be made of all the outstanding obligations.

Aside from the parade in the afternoon the outstanding feature of the program for Monday was the meeting of the Adams County Firemen's Association, at which representatives from all of the seventeen companies of the county were present. The firemen mulled over plans for the annual picnic which will be held at Bonneauville on Labor Day.

A number of the firemen arrived at Fairfield early in the day to take part in the parade which was held in the afternoon.

More than three hundred and fifty persons took part in the parade which was lead by the Hanover Boys' Club band. The new fire apparatus took a prominent part in the line of paraders while the old apparatus which was the predecessor of the modernized truck was manned by a bevy of the girls of the community attired in the garb of the old company. Boy Scouts, school children, "rough riders," and a number of comically dressed individuals helped to swell the line of march to the greatest proportion which the town has ever seen.

KILLED DEER OUT OF SEASON; HELD

Biglerville Men Working in Lycoming County Fined For Slaying Animals Illegally.

Charged with killing deer illegally and possessing venison illegally, four Biglerville men, working in Lycoming county, were arrested and have been fined $100 each, according to reports from W. B. McClarin, game protector of Lycoming county.

The four defendants were D. A. Washinger, Robert Reary, Dallis Foreman and Calvin Schofield. They are working in Lycoming county for the Musselman interests, in large apple orchards there.

The men are said to have shot and killed deer found in their orchards and to have eaten the venison without notifying the game protector that the animals had been doing damage.

KEZIAH KUFF IS BURIED SUNDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Keziah Elizabeth Kuff, whose age, according to family Bible records and as it appears on the death certificate, was 122 years, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Asbury Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Kuff, widow of William Kuff, died last Thursday evening, after a lingering illness. The services were in charge of the Rev. W. O. Lyles and the Rev. Mr. Johnson. Interment was in the colored cemetery.

GAME VIOLATORS PAY HEAVY FINES

John P. Marks and C. R. Weaver, both of Gardners, have paid fines of $100 each for claiming bounty fraudulently from the state game commission. The arrests were made by Leo Bushman, Adams county game warden.

Mr. Bushman also reported that Robert H. Baker, Iron Springs, has paid a fine of $10 for permitting a dog to chase small game during a closed season, and that David Shephard, of McKnightstown, has paid a fine of $25 for allowing a dog to chase deer.

MAN DIES WEEK AFTER MOTHER

Conrad Murtorff Expires Suddenly Shortly After Eating a Hearty Meal Monday.

Stricken as he arose after eating a hearty meal, Conrad J. Murtorff, 42, of Gardners Route 4, died suddenly Monday afternoon, from a hemorrhage of the lungs. His mother, the late Mrs. John E. Murtorff, died at her home on June 28, just a week before her son's death.

Mr. Murtorff had been dining with his family and about 3:30 o'clock he arose from the table and started to walk to an adjoining room when he was stricken. Before aid could reach him he had expired.

He is survived by his father, John E. Murtorff; his wife, two daughters, Irene and Lovina, and one brother, Dosh, Gardners Route 4.

He was a lifelong member of the Grace Evangelical church, of Uriah. Funeral services Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, meeting at the house, with further services at the church, the Rev. J. Womelsdorff officiating. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

DR. GEORGE HAY IS VISITOR HERE

Dr. George Hay and family, of Johnstown, visited friends and relatives in Gettysburg over the week-end. Doctor Hays' mother, Mrs. Anna M. Hay, is the author of the "Hay-Suppes Blue Book," and while in Gettysburg the Johnstown man presented copies of the book to Mrs. Mary Jane Himes, Mrs. Sallie Brown Cox, Mrs. Martha Hay O'Neal and Mrs. Katie Hay Nixon, all of Gettysburg, relatives of Doctor Hay and Mrs. Hay.

Colonel John Hay, of Revolutionary War fame, was the grandfather of the four Gettysburg women.

FUNERAL HELD AT IDAVILLE

Funeral services for Dale Richard Group, who died Wednesday evening, were held Saturday afternoon, with brief services at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Group, Idaville, and further services at the Evangelical church, Idaville, the Rev. J. Womelsdorf officiating. Interment at Idaville.

Pallbearers were Lloyd Hart, Abraham Myers, John Troup and Ralph Koontz.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

While the country at large was celebrating the birth of the nation 150 years ago, over the week-end, at least two local families were celebrating the birth of off-spring into their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bollinger, South Washington street, announce the birth of a daughter, Anna Elizabeth, Sunday morning.

At the Warner Hospital, Saturday afternoon, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel A. Meyer, Biglerville.

GENERAL SWEENEY DIES

(By Associated Press.)

Philadelphia, July 6.—Brigadier General Frank Sweeney, former inspector general of the Pennsylvania National Guard, who spent 40 years in the service, died in a hospital here today after a short illness. He was 67 years old and was retired from the guard in 1919.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Willard A. Litzenberger, of Bethlehem, and Philip Hughes, Gettysgurg Route 3, were admitted as patients to the Warner Hospital.

Motorist In Collision In Which Girls Were Hurt Is Held For Reckless Driving.

Five persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a series of week-end holiday accidents on roads near Gettysburg. Traffic was unusually heavy on Sunday morning and until midafternoon when rain marred the driving.

Of the five persons hurt, four were admitted to the Warner Hospital, where today they were reported to be resting comfortably.

Two young women were injured in a broadside crash at Cross Keys, east of New Oxford on the Lincoln Highway, Monday morning. They were Miss Ruth Cornman, of Towson, Maryland and Miss Phyllis Cecil, of Lutherville, Maryland.

They were occupants of a touring car driven by C. Guy Yateman, of Towson. Mrs. Yateman also was in the machine. The four were on their way to Carlisle.

As they were crossing the Lincoln Highway at Cross Keys, the Yateman machine was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Willard Foust, of Fayetteville, according to Patrolman A. L. Reese, of the local sub-station, who investigated the accident and who has laid a charge of reckless driving against the Franklin county motorist.

Girls Injured

Foust's machine, it is alleged by the Patrolman, struck the Yateman car broadside, pushing it completely off the road. Mrs. Yateman, it is said, was thrown out of the front seat of her husband's car but was only slightly injured.

Miss Cornman and Miss Cecil were occupying the rear seat when the accident occurred. Neither was thrown out. Miss Cornman, a niece of Martin Moul, Hanover, suffered a fractured pelvis and a contused back.

Miss Cecil's injuries were limited to a strained back and shock.

The Gettysburg ambulance brought the injured women to the hospital here. They were accompanied to the hospital by Mr. Moul.

Neither Foust or his wife, who was accompanying him, was injured. Both cars were damaged and were towed to a New Oxford garage.

YORK GUARD UNIT SIGNALLY HONORED

To the 28th military police company, of York, commanded by Captain Joseph E. Rice, son of the Rev. and Mrs. S. L. Rice, Gettysburg, went the exceptional privilege of acting as guard of honor for President Coolidge when he arrived in Philadelphia Monday morning to deliver an address at the Sesquicentennial.

The York unit went to Philadelphia Sunday with 92 men and officers, and guarded the president from the time he detrained until he left Philadelphia late Monday afternoon.

Fireworks Injure McSherrystown Boys

Two McSherrystown youths, Bernard Topper, aged about 14 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Topper, and Norman Overbaugh, aged about 18 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Overbaugh, both of North street, are suffering from powder burns from exploding fireworks. The former was injured about the left hand and the latter had the little finger of his left hand burned.

Transit Stock Is Up Despite Strike

(By Associated Press.)

New York, July 6.—Resumption of trading after the three-day holiday found the course of stock prices still upward at the opening of today's market. An initial gain of two points in Interborough Rapid Transit in the face of a strike was one of the early features.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

stenographer in the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, suffered a fractured rib and contusions when the car in which she and her sister were riding, the latter driving, skidded from the highway, near Emmitsburg, Sunday evening, hit a rock and was wrecked.

The two women were returning to Harrisburg from Waynesboro when the accident occurred. Miss Roth's sister was not injured. The accident occurred shortly before 6 o'clock and passing motorists brought the injured woman to the Warner Hospital.

George Howie, 60, Philadelphia, who describes himself as a "pedestrian tourist," suffered a fractured nose and a badly lacerated face when he was hit by an automobile driven by Alfred Levy, North Front street, Harrisburg, on the Harrisburg-Gettysburg 'pike, Sunday. Levy reported to the state police after the accident.

Howie was walking toward Gettysburg, and he was hit by Levy's machine which was traveling in the same direction, according to the state police. The pedestrian was hurled to the side of the road and the motorist immediately stopped and rendered necessary assistance, taking the injured man to the hospital.

Boy Hurt

Donald Ness, 10, of Dallastown, York county, was treated by a local physician, Sunday, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Hershey Park, west of here, when two cars collided.

Two automobiles crashed, but no one was injured when cars driven by Paul Dubbs, near Gettysburg, and Ellis Kint, Mummasburg, collided on the Fairfield road, Saturday evening. Kint was driving a machine rented from the Drive-It-Yourself Service, Center Square.

Kint was coming toward Gettysburg, when Dubbs drove from a side road. The Drive-It-Yourself machine was not badly damaged, but Dubbs' car was wrecked. Both machines were towed to the Central Auto Company, York street, for repairs.

Two cars collided and upset, but the occupants suffered only minor cuts and bruises, at the foot of Keckler's Hill on the Gettysburg-Biglerville road, Sunday evening at 9:30 o'clock.

A machine driven by Eugene Flemming, York, nephew of W. B. Flemming, Steinwehr avenue, skidded on the slippery surface of Keckler's Hill as it was coming toward Gettysburg, and ran into the automobile driven by A. C. Sage, of Florida. Both machines left the highway and upset in the gutter at the side of the road. Sage was driving toward Biglerville.

Both machines were badly damaged and had to be towed to the H. & H. Machine Shop, South Washington street, for repairs.

HANOVER BOY IS LOCKJAW VICTIM

Youth Burned by Powder Succumbs in Hospital Before Doctors Could Stop Infection.

A slight wound inflicted when a blank cartridge exploded, the wadding entering his hand, caused the death of Paul Miller, 12 year old Hanover boy, on Saturday after tetanus had developed almost a week after he had received his injury.

The boy had been playing with a toy pistol, which shot blank cartridges and when the cartridge exploded a part of the wadding entered his hand, as did also some of the powder. He had the injured member treated and the wound seemed to be healing until it was found that some time during Thursday night, tetanus had developed and that his entire body was affected. He was taken to the West Side Sanitarium, West York, but physicians were unable to remedy the infection.

Two other Hanover boys were injured in a similar way by this type of pistols.

present and the future. It is well that by such celebrations as this we should annually renew our devotion to our country on which the citizenship, as well as the future of our institutions, rests. The great inheritance of liberty under the law, bequeathed to us and preserved for us by our fathers, is ours to preserve, our to protect and ours to transmit to future generations."

When the speaker concluded, he was applauded for several minutes, one of the greatest ovations given here in recent years.

Burgess C. A. Heiges presided at the indoor meeting. In the absence, because of illness, of the Rev. C. C. Cole, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Jerome C. Jackson, dean of men at Gettsburg College, gave the invocation, and also read the Declaration of Independence.

The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, led by musicians of the First Regiment Band, of Westminster, Maryland, lent an additional patriotic touch to the exercises.

Concert Cancelled

Events scheduled for Monday forenoon were cancelled on account of rain. They included a baseball game between two teams in the Adams County League and a band concert by the Citizens' Band of this place.

The First Regiment Band of Westminster paraded in the rain early Monday afternoon, and later in the afternoon and evening gave concerts, assisted by the Knights of Pythias Band, of Hanover.

The display of reworks scheduled for Monday evening at Memorial Field, Gettysburg College, was cancelled by the rain, but members of the committee in charge of the celebration today said that the collection of sky-rockets, aerial bombs and set pieces would be set off within the next week or ten days, the exact time and place to be announced later.

Game Is Called

The scheduled baseball game between the Fairfield team and the Cashtown nine was called off during the third inning, when a heavy rainstorm turned the playing field into a sea of mud, but in the short time in which the game had progressed the Fairfield aggregation managed to run up a score of 6 to 2.

The band, undismayed by the weather, played during the evening.

The old fiddlers attracted many of the older folks when they played for the square dances in the tent erected over the large dance floor which was constructed especially for the occasion. The younger members of the community held their round dances in the auditorium of the Odd Fellows hall, the music being supplied by a regular orchestra.

Practically all celebration was suspended on Sunday, except for the union services which were held in the Zion Lutheran church at which the Rev. Walter C. Pugh, pastor of the Reformed church, delivered the "home-coming" sermon.

On Saturday afternoon the official welcome of the present residents of the town was extended to the former residents, when the exercises were held at the carnival grounds. Samuel K. White, of the law firm of Peck, White and Forster, of Philadelphia, son of former-associate Judge A. F. White, delivered the address of the afternoon. Taking for his topic "Old Home Week," he stressed the fact that our independence is a fact so stupendous that it can be measured only by the size, energy, wealth and power of one of the greatest nations in the world.

He further pointed out that it is one thing for a person to come to his majority and another thing for a person to know what to do with his life and energies.

He read an original poem which he had dedicated to his father, who is now in his eightieth year. Mr. White also made a donation of fifty dollars to the firemen for their new pumper.

Immediately following the exercises the Fairfield team clashed with the nine from Waynesboro, the former taking the long end of a 6 to 2 score.

After a chicken and waffle supper, the Paradise Protectory Band gave a concert after which a program was presented at the amusement tent. Included in this program was a pageant, "In Old Japan," given by ten girls of the town, attired in the flowing costumes of the "Flowery Kingdom." Miss Hester Allison also entertained with a solo dance.

Following the program dancing was held at the floor, with the old fiddlers furnishing the music for the older dancers while an orchestra was also on hand for the modern dancing.

The members of the committee have decided to hold a dance and festival at the carnival grounds on Saturday evening, July 10, as a sort of a continuation of the firemen's carnival, at which time the car will be presented by the firemen.

ed Fourth" which the burgess provided by lifting the restrictions on the sale and display of fireworks.

Burgess Heiges today said he believed the "open" Fourth of July celebration was what the town wanted, and that he was in favor of lifting the ban on the sale and use of fireworks next year.

He added, however, that the police have the names of a number of pre-Fourth celebrators who have been notified to appear before him and pay fines for shooting off fireworks before Monday, Not all violators were rounded up, it was stated, but the police did the best they could under the circumstances.

Injuries Not Serious

None of the half dozen persons injured by fireworks over the week-end was seriously burned, physicians said, but said that great care should be exercised by anyone who was burned in even the smallest way by powder since the danger of lock jaw and blood poisoning is ever-present in such burns.

Every local dealer in fireworks sold out their supplies before Monday was several hours old, and hurried trips were made to nearby wholesale houses for additional stocks of pyrotechnics, Before evening, there was not a firecracker in the town for sale.

On Monday evening, the air was filled with hundreds of brightly-colored balls of fire from hundreds and hundreds of Roman candles and sky rockets. Hornets' nests, sparklers, flower pots and other pieces glowed and cast Niagaras of sparks for the delectation of young and old.

Altogether the day was one long to be remembered in Gettysburg, for it marked the return of fireworks, at least during the term of office of Burgess Heiges.

The rain on Monday spoiled the racing cards at York Springs and at Milhimes' near Hunterstown, All baseball games scheduled for the day were called off, and persons who had contemplated spending the day fishing were forced to forego that recreation.

Local traffic was comparatively light on Monday, with cars from other states being in the majority of those traveling.

stenographer in the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, suffered a fractured rib and contusions when the car in which she and her sister were riding, the latter driving, skidded from the highway, near Emmitsburg, Sunday evening, hit a rock and was wrecked.

The two women were returning to Harrisburg from Waynesboro when the accident occurred. Miss Roth's sister was not injured. The accident occurred shortly before 6 o'clock and passing motorists brought the injured woman to the Warner Hospital.

George Howie, 60, Philadelphia, who describes himself as a "pedestrian tourist," suffered a fractured nose and a badly lacerated face when he was hit by an automobile driven by Alfred Levy, North Front street, Harrisburg, on the Harrisburg-Gettysburg 'pike, Sunday. Levy reported to the state police after the accident.

Howie was walking toward Gettysburg, and he was hit by Levy's machine which was traveling in the same direction, according to the state police. The pedestrian was hurled to the side of the road and the motorist immediately stopped and rendered necessary assistance, taking the injured man to the hospital.

Boy Hurt

Donald Ness, 10, of Dallastown, York county, was treated by a local physician, Sunday, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Hershey Park, west of here, when two cars collided.

Two automobiles crashed, but no one was injured when cars driven by Paul Dubbs, near Gettysburg, and Ellis Kint, Mummasburg, collided on the Fairfield road, Saturday evening. Kint was driving a machine rented from the Drive-It-Yourself Service, Center Square.

Kint was coming toward Gettysburg, when Dubbs drove from a side road. The Drive-It-Yourself machine was not badly damaged, but Dubbs' car was wrecked. Both machines were towed to the Central Auto Company, York street, for repairs.

Two cars collided and upset, but the occupants suffered only minor cuts and bruises, at the foot of Keckler's Hill on the Gettysburg-Biglerville road, Sunday evening at 9:30 o'clock.

A machine driven by Eugene Flemming, York, nephew of W. B. Flemming, Steinwehr avenue, skidded on the slippery surface of Keckler's Hill as it was coming toward Gettysburg, and ran into the automobile driven by A. C. Sage, of Florida. Both machines left the highway and upset in the gutter at the side of the road. Sage was driving toward Biglerville.

Both machines were badly damaged and had to be towed to the H. & H. Machine Shop, South Washington street, for repairs.

HANOVER BOY IS LOCKJAW VICTIM

Youth Burned by Powder Succumbs in Hospital Before Doctors Could Stop Infection.

A slight wound inflicted when a blank cartridge exploded, the wadding entering his hand, caused the death of Paul Miller, 12 year old Hanover boy, on Saturday after tetanus had developed almost a week after he had received his injury.

The boy had been playing with a toy pistol, which shot blank cartridges and when the cartridge exploded a part of the wadding entered his hand, as did also some of the powder. He had the injured member treated and the wound seemed to be healing until it was found that some time during Thursday night, tetanus had developed and that his entire body was affected. He was taken to the West Side Sanitarium, West York, but physicians were unable to remedy the infection.

Two other Hanover boys were injured in a similar way by this type of pistols.

present and the future. It is well that by such celebrations as this we should annually renew our devotion to our country on which the citizenship, as well as the future of our institutions, rests. The great inheritance of liberty under the law, bequeathed to us and preserved for us by our fathers, is ours to preserve, our to protect and ours to transmit to future generations."

When the speaker concluded, he was applauded for several minutes, one of the greatest ovations given here in recent years.

Burgess C. A. Heiges presided at the indoor meeting. In the absence, because of illness, of the Rev. C. C. Cole, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Jerome C. Jackson, dean of men at Gettsburg College, gave the invocation, and also read the Declaration of Independence.

The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, led by musicians of the First Regiment Band, of Westminster, Maryland, lent an additional patriotic touch to the exercises.

Concert Cancelled

Events scheduled for Monday forenoon were cancelled on account of rain. They included a baseball game between two teams in the Adams County League and a band concert by the Citizens' Band of this place.

The First Regiment Band of Westminster paraded in the rain early Monday afternoon, and later in the afternoon and evening gave concerts, assisted by the Knights of Pythias Band, of Hanover.

The display of reworks scheduled for Monday evening at Memorial Field, Gettysburg College, was cancelled by the rain, but members of the committee in charge of the celebration today said that the collection of sky-rockets, aerial bombs and set pieces would be set off within the next week or ten days, the exact time and place to be announced later.

Game Is Called

The scheduled baseball game between the Fairfield team and the Cashtown nine was called off during the third inning, when a heavy rainstorm turned the playing field into a sea of mud, but in the short time in which the game had progressed the Fairfield aggregation managed to run up a score of 6 to 2.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Evading a breach of promise suit, Clifford Dudley, latest stage sheik, "tours the sticks," and is bored silly until he spots a remarkably pretty girl, Marie Downey, in a small town audience with her sweetheart, John. Clifford brazenly flirts across the footlights. John quarrels with Marie. Stranded in Winesville for two days, Clifford amuses himself by continuing the flirtation. Piqued by John's snub, Marie seriously gives her interest to Clifford and because he kisses her she innocently thinks they thus became engaged.

"Oh, no, you mustn't do that—" began Clifford roughly, then stopped to think. He continued with more ease, "Listen, my dear, my contract prohibits my marrying on the road. Once I'm in New York, and it's finished, I'll send for you. Do you see, my dear? But if you tell your father, or anyone, they'll tell the manager, and then where will I be—and you?"

"Oh, I see," gasped Marie. "How mean! I—I won't tell, of course. But you mean it? You'll send for me? You love me?"

"Oh, more than the moon and stars, my dear," Clifford assured her nervously. They were getting into Main Street. He gently released her clutching arm.

"Listen, my dear," he said softly, "don't you think it would be better if I walked back to the hotel alone—your father might be suspicious."

"I—I guess so." She brightened and looked with trust in his face. "We'll have tonight, anyway, and all day tomorrow won't we—to talk about it? And you're not sorry

"I couldn't bear to stay without you," explained Marie childlike.

you're stranded in this town now, are you? You do love me, don't you?"

"Sure."

"Sure?"

"Oh, sure," sighed Clifford wanly. He might have known. They were all the same, in chorus and country.

Miss Marie Downey and Mr. Clifford Dudley, the New York actor, who had been noticed by all Main Streeters in good standing, taking a walk together in the morning came back some time later by separate ways. Miss Downey cut through some of the residential side streets, though carefully avoiding the house of her friend, Dora, to whom she felt she could not bear not to tell—everything! Mr. Clifford Dudley walked glumly back by his lone, thinking.

"Almighty. 'What have I let myself in for now.' Do I have to have that hanging on my neck in this blank town?"

Whereat Mr. Clifford Dudley swore profusely, and Main Streeters wondered whether he was learning a new part—or what?

CHAPTER III

Turning alone, with few of the wrong words of his vocabulary left unsaid, into the hotel, Clifford was encompassed in an arc of irritation described by the manager.

"And where the devil've you been? Scouting for you everywhere. The company's ordered back to New York. Epidemic of hoof an' mouth disease or sumpin', and there's no use sticking around. You gotta whole hour to pack and say farewell to that new sweetie you managed to pick up."

Clifford replied in kind. But he was so relieved that he left the manager flabbergasted by his unwonted gentleness. At the desk he found a wire from his personal manager, too. That irksome breach of promise case had been settled as predicted. Decidedly, Clifford thought, he was lucky. A few more days, even a few more hours in this town, and there was no telling what new breach of promise case would be on his hands. And this kid, drat her, though she was cute, was only seventeen.

Wisely, to the end that there should be no danger of a hitch, Clifford secluded himself in his room. Half an hour passed, forty minutes. Clifford was beginning to pack when a timid rat-tat that he had hoped to avoid sounded on his door. He made no answer.

"It's—it's—Marie, Clifford," in a light whisper, and then louder and with more assurance, "I have the coffee that you ordered, Mr. Dudley."

"Oh, come in," called Clifford frantically.

She came in.

"I only have a minute, now. What is it? What is it now?"

Marie set the tray of coffee, which she had brought up, sure enough, on the table. She stood near the door, twisting her hands, her eyes filled with vague tears. To herself she was a figure in a tragedy.

"I h-heard you're going, Clifford."

"Well?"

Marie's words came in a storm from her heart:

"When you love me so much. You said so. How can you go—without me? Oh, Clifford, let me tell father."

Clifford played with a wild desire to shout. "For the love of Mike, you poor sap, beat it and close the door behind you!" His caution stopped him. It told him that there would be such a cloudburst, such possible thunder and lightning of rage from the hotel keeper, such kidding from the company, as he could not stand, especially when all this could be avoided by a little well oiled "stringing along."

"Now, listen, dear," he explained placatively. "I've told you how it is. When I get to New York I'll send for you. I'll write to you the minute I get there, the minute I get on the train, in fact. And we'll plan. Now, you can't stay here. Your father wouldn't like it. There's a good girl."

He patted her on the back and wondered why her eyes, looking gullelessly into his, grew so tearless and ruminative. She was about to speak, when Clifford glanced at his watch. A quarter of.

"You must go," said Clifford, with determination.

She slipped out without a word.

"That's that," breathed Clifford, and attacked his packing, cursing this road where valets were unknown.

Theatrical folk, notoriously indifferent to the time of rehearsals and engagements, cannot afford to be dilatory about trains. A minute before the New York express pulled out from Winesville the manager counted heads in the Pullman and found the number correct. The train gave a snort, a whistle and a preparatory bound. The manager thought of a cigar. The character actor made his way to the smoking car in search of a possible game of poker. The women were taking off their hats, patting their bobs, opening their magazines with little yawns, apprehensive of the boring journey ahead.

Clifford, spreading his well shined shoes on the seat across, opened a copy of Theatre and began to study a picture of himself, an occupation which could engross him for minutes at a time. Another bound, a deep belch of rage at new activity from the long and lazy train, and they were on their way.

For a minute longer, perhaps, Clifford, all unconscious of light footsteps up the aisle, and looks and surprised giggles from the women, sat absorbed in his picture. A small voice murmured questioningly:

"Clifford?"

He started up, all his contentment erased. And there before him was a demure vision in the best blue silk jumper dress, with a tiny blue felt hat to match pulled down over brown bobbed hair, brown eyes trembling into his, and the face of Marie, dimpling and flushing, half naughty, half frightened.

If Clifford had been a woman his scream would have risen above the train. Being, such as he was, a man, he only gasped and made noises as if he were gargling his throat.

"I couldn't bear to stay without you," explained Marie childlike. She clasped her hands in front of her, more childishly than ever.

"Oh, Clifford," she begged anxiously, "It's all right, isn't it? You don't mind, do you? I left a note for father and sneaked out. I—I didn't have much time to tell you, did I? It just came over me. And I knew if I found a way you'd want me with you. You do, don't you?"

"Oh, my God!" cried Clifford desperately.

The company watched them from afar, cynically, and a bit disapprovingly too. The character woman nudged Sally Short:

"Look! She's pretty young, too."

The manager frowned. He did not like these small town janes tagging after theatrical troupes.

CHICAGO JUDGE PERMITS BETTING

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 6.—Circuit Judge Ira Ryner Saturday issued an injunction restraining the county law enforcing officers from interfering with the system of betting at the inauguration of racing this afternoon at the new Washington Park race track.

The restraining order permitting the track officials to open 31 days of racing without interference in the plan of wagering which the Illinois jockey club contends is legal was temporary and will expire at noon Wednesday.

What a "drag" will do

A DRAG on your jimmy-pipe, loaded to the guards with Prince Albert, will give you an entirely new idea of how good a pipe can taste when you put it on the proper diet. It will revise all your notions about the grand old pastime of pipe-smoking. Make the test!

This very day, get yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. and tuck a load into the business end of your pipe. Light up and pull that wonderful smoke up the stem. Notice how cool it tastes, whether you feed it fast or slow. Notice how sweet and mellow it is. Good old P. A.!

When you open the tin, the aroma that greets you is richly fragrant . . . the breath of real, honest-to-goodness tobacco. An aromatic promise of the smoke-pleasure to come. You'll never forget that taste when you light up. Nothing else is like it anywhere.

No matter how satisfied you think you are, give P. A. a whirl in your jimmy-pipe. Millions of smoke-happy men will tell you that P. A. will give you more pleasure to the cubic inch than any tobacco you ever smoked. There's a P. A. sunshine-shop just across the way!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Evading a breach of promise suit, Clifford Dudley, latest stage sheik, "tours the sticks," and is bored silly until he spots a remarkably pretty girl, Marie Downey, in a small town audience with her sweetheart, John. Clifford brazenly flirts across the footlights. John quarrels with Marie. Stranded in Winesville for two days, Clifford amuses himself by continuing the flirtation. Piqued by John's snub, Marie seriously gives her interest to Clifford and because he kisses her she innocently thinks they thus became engaged.

"Oh, no, you mustn't do that—" began Clifford roughly, then stopped to think. He continued with more ease, "Listen, my dear, my contract prohibits my marrying on the road. Once I'm in New York, and it's finished, I'll send for you. Do you see, my dear? But if you tell your father, or anyone, they'll tell the manager, and then where will I be—and you?"

"Oh, I see," gasped Marie. "How mean! I—I won't tell, of course. But you mean it? You'll send for me? You love me?"

"Oh, more than the moon and stars, my dear," Clifford assured her nervously. They were getting into Main Street. He gently released her clutching arm.

"Listen, my dear," he said softly, "don't you think it would be better if I walked back to the hotel alone—your father might be suspicious."

"I—I guess so." She brightened and looked with trust in his face. "We'll have tonight, anyway, and all day tomorrow won't we—to talk about it? And you're not sorry

"I couldn't bear to stay without you," explained Marie childlike.

you're stranded in this town now, are you? You do love me, don't you?"

"Sure."

"Sure?"

"Oh, sure," sighed Clifford wanly. He might have known. They were all the same, in chorus and country.

Miss Marie Downey and Mr. Clifford Dudley, the New York actor, who had been noticed by all Main Streeters in good standing, taking a walk together in the morning came back some time later by separate ways. Miss Downey cut through some of the residential side streets, though carefully avoiding the house of her friend, Dora, to whom she felt she could not bear not to tell—everything! Mr. Clifford Dudley walked glumly back by his lone, thinking.

"Almighty. 'What have I let myself in for now.' Do I have to have that hanging on my neck in this blank town?"

Whereat Mr. Clifford Dudley swore profusely, and Main Streeters wondered whether he was learning a new part—or what?

CHAPTER III

Turning alone, with few of the wrong words of his vocabulary left unsaid, into the hotel, Clifford was encompassed in an arc of irritation described by the manager.

"And where the devil've you been? Scouting for you everywhere. The company's ordered back to New York. Epidemic of hoof an' mouth disease or sumpin', and there's no use sticking around. You gotta whole hour to pack and say farewell to that new sweetie you managed to pick up."

Clifford replied in kind. But he was so relieved that he left the manager flabbergasted by his unwonted gentleness. At the desk he found a wire from his personal manager, too. That irksome breach of promise case had been settled as predicted. Decidedly, Clifford thought, he was lucky. A few more days, even a few more hours in this town, and there was no telling what new breach of promise case would be on his hands. And this kid, drat her, though she was cute, was only seventeen.

Wisely, to the end that there should be no danger of a hitch, Clifford secluded himself in his room. Half an hour passed, forty minutes. Clifford was beginning to pack when a timid rat-tat that he had hoped to avoid sounded on his door. He made no answer.

"It's—it's—Marie, Clifford," in a light whisper, and then louder and with more assurance, "I have the coffee that you ordered, Mr. Dudley."

"Oh, come in," called Clifford frantically.

She came in.

"I only have a minute, now. What is it? What is it now?"

Marie set the tray of coffee, which she had brought up, sure enough, on the table. She stood near the door, twisting her hands, her eyes filled with vague tears. To herself she was a figure in a tragedy.

"I h-heard you're going, Clifford."

"Well?"

take S.S.S. for that tired, weak, run-down feeling

S. S. S. is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body and increase the endurance of weak, failing women and men.

Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red blood-cells. You can get back your strength with S. S. S.

Why! You'll begin living all over again. You will enjoy eating and above all, you will be able to stand up under the strain of daily life and enjoy it.

You can take S. S. S. with confidence—millions testify to its merits. An unbroken record of service for over 100 years is a great testimonial to a great medicine.

Remember S. S. S. is made only from fresh roots and herbs.

CHICAGO JUDGE PERMITS BETTING

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 6.—Circuit Judge Ira Ryner Saturday issued an injunction restraining the county law enforcing officers from interfering with the system of betting at the inauguration of racing this afternoon at the new Washington Park race track.

The restraining order permitting the track officials to open 31 days of racing without interference in the plan of wagering which the Illinois jockey club contends is legal was temporary and will expire at noon Wednesday.

LITTLESTOWN

Karl Mayers, of the Kump apartments, is spending some time as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hart, Rochester, New York, and other relatives and friends in that city.

Prof. Milton H. Bair returned to Cape May Point, New Jersey, after concluding a visit at the home of his brother, Jesse Bair and family, near Littlestown.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Mehring, East King street, were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baumgardner, Taneytown, Maryland.

What a "drag" will do

A DRAG on your jimmy-pipe, loaded to the guards with Prince Albert, will give you an entirely new idea of how good a pipe can taste when you put it on the proper diet. It will revise all your notions about the grand old pastime of pipe-smoking. Make the test!

This very day, get yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. and tuck a load into the business end of your pipe. Light up and pull that wonderful smoke up the stem. Notice how cool it tastes, whether you feed it fast or slow. Notice how sweet and mellow it is. Good old P. A.!

When you open the tin, the aroma that greets you is richly fragrant . . . the breath of real, honest-to-goodness tobacco. An aromatic promise of the smoke-pleasure to come. You'll never forget that taste when you light up. Nothing else is like it anywhere.

No matter how satisfied you think you are, give P. A. a whirl in your jimmy-pipe. Millions of smoke-happy men will tell you that P. A. will give you more pleasure to the cubic inch than any tobacco you ever smoked. There's a P. A. sunshine-shop just across the way!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

UNLIMITED PARKING

Borough council is very wisely considering seriously the matter of restricted automobile parking.

But parking rules dare not be made too severe in a community which depends so largely upon tourists and farmers for its prosperity and business. And they practically all come in automobiles. Their convenience and comfort while guests of Gettysburg must of necessity be kept uppermost in mind.

The automobile congestion seems to be mostly in the center of town. Would it not, therefore, be wise to limit parking to two hours on the four streets within one block of Center Square, and leave parking unrestricted on the other streets, except between the hours of midnight and six o'clock in the morning?

While parking rules are being promulgated, it might also be well to give garages and filling stations an official "no parking" area if the proposed tax for each gasoline pump is to be laid.

A study of parking rules and regulations in other small towns might lead to the best set of rules for Gettysburg. An appropriation of the necessary public funds for Gettysburg councilmen, or a committee there, to carry on this study would be money well spent if an adequate and satisfactory parking ordinance to all concerned would result.

DICK

Dick played ball in the early days,
And Dick played ball to the end,
Cheering another's brilliant plays,
Always a loyal friend.

Dick used to fumble them now and then,
Ball players often do;
And when fumbles came to his fellow men
The hurt of it all he knew.

But Dick played ball, and he dug right in,
Never serving a selfish plan;
Dick wanted the team he loved to win,
And that is the proof of a man.

Never a selfish fight he fought,
Till he answered the final call;
Dick gave his strength and he gave his thought
To the greater good of us all.

Now his life is closed, and we speak his praise
And mourn for a loyal friend,
Dick played ball in the early days,
And Dick played ball to the end.

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

"Yes, we Coons are very like our big brothers, the bears," went on Billy Coon, seeing how interested was the little rabbit in the last story regarding the habits of the Coon family. "We wander here and there and everywhere, but we have regular paths,—what I mean by that, well remembered lines of direction,—and like the bears, if not disturbed, we always return to old familiar spots."

"Don't you need a compass?" laughed the bunny boy.

"No, siree," answered Billy Coon. "I learned all about the woods when a kiddo from my good mother, and maybe more since then. She showed me many abandoned dens and hollow trees that will shelter a Coon in time of danger."

"Lady Love has taught me a lot," cried the dear little rabbit. "I try to remember what she tells me."

"'At a boy," grinned Billy Coon. "I once met an old Coon,—a brave old fellow who saved my life,—I'll tell you about it some day—who used to often recite a bit of verse. Want to hear it?"

"Yes, I do," cried the bunny rabbit.

"Always be the kind of boy
Your Mother thinks you are.
Keep her image in your heart
For a guiding star," recited Billy Coon.

"I carry her photo in my watch," said the little bunny, and taking from his pocket Uncle Lucky's present, given umpty-leven stories ago, he showed the picture of his loving rabbit mother.

"Goodness me," apologized Billy Coon, "maybe some of the clam juice squirted into my eye," and he wiped it with a little green leaf. Was it a tear, Little Reader, because his good mother was no longer alive to hear him tell her how much she had done for him?

"Tell me more of your habits," begged the little rabbit. "I love to learn all about my furry and feathered friends."

"Well, in the first place, I walk and hunt and fight and feed like a bear," explained Billy Coon. "And I have many dens, as I think I told you. I have one near the Kind Farmer's cornfield, where I can sleep and rest; another in a dry tree for rainy weather and a cool spot for hot days. I often rest on the top of a trunk stub in the sunshine during the cool autumn days, and when the cold weather comes I go to sleep for the winter in a warm, deep hollow tree."

"Do you know," said the little rabbit, as Billy Coon paused, "you do look very like a bear, especially your face and hind quarters and the way you walk."

"Well, I'm like him, too, in disposition. I'm a peaceable fellow and mind my own business as I amble through the woods. I remember some time ago Old Sie'em trailed me for a mile or more, but when he got too close I climbed a tree, although, had he cornered me by any chance, I would have fought him. Yes, sir, we Coons are no cowards. We can fight and fight well, if we are forced to it."

"I must be going," said the little rabbit. "Thank you, Billy Coon, I've learned a lot about you."

"Don't thank me, but call again some evening when Mrs. Coon, the youngsters and I start out on a food hunt," answered Billy Coon. "You'll learn something more about coon habits," and he waved his paw to the bunny boy as he hopped away on another adventure, which your Uncle Dave will relate in the next story.

THE FURNISHED HEART

IT ISN'T what you put into your home for furniture, but how you place that furniture.

Some of the most beautiful homes I have ever been in have been those that were furnished the simplest. It's taste and heart that make a home.

It's just that way with a heart. People ought to have beautifully furnished hearts—not gaudy or expensive, but simple and restful.

There are those of my friends whom I love to be with because I know just how careful and painstaking they have been in furnishing their hearts. After you have been with them for a few moments you know that you are in the midst of peace and beauty. You at once feel, also, the scattered scent of those others who have delighted themselves in those chambers.

People who have furnished their homes with much of themselves like to have their friends come around. When you are left alone in such places you feel your host's presence.

Recently, I spent a night in such a home. My room was simply, though perfectly furnished. There was a large vase of flowers that the wife had gathered from the lovely garden, and vines of roses, and all manner of other flowers scented the air in the cool of the evening.

Many people would be much happier if they did but refurnish their hearts. And many people would be happier if they started inviting a different type of people to those hearts. For people so often help us to refurnish our hearts.

And a furnished heart—even though beautifully furnished—would be a very lonely heart without many people in it!

Mother, don't worry about that skin trouble—apply
Resinol
You need never hesitate to use this gentle, healing ointment for any skin disorder, no matter how aggravated the condition may be, as there is nothing in Resinol which could injure the tenderest skin. It was a doctor's prescription many years ago and has been used by other physicians ever since in treating itching, burning, unsightly skin affections.
It relieves itching at once, reduces inflammation and starts the healing.
Your druggist sells Resinol

The Sealed pump is the dealer's guarantee to you of genuine high quality Tydol

HAVEN'T you sometimes wondered, as you watched gasoline being pumped into the tank of your car, whether you were getting the brand of gasoline you asked for?

There is, in fact, foundation for your doubts. In certain cities, notably New York, thousands of gallons of cheap, inferior gasolines have been sold through pumps which bear the trade-marks of well-known, high-quality gasolines.

That deplorable condition is not wide-spread. Yet Tide Water and the Tydol dealers of this locality want to make certain that inferior gasolines never can be substituted for Tydol. They want to safeguard Tydol's high quality, and make it possible for you to be sure that every drop of gasoline that comes from a Tydol pump is genuine Tydol.

Therefore, Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this city and vicinity.

The sealed Tydol pump

On the intake pipe of every underground tank, which feeds a Tydol pump in this locality, Tide Water has affixed its seal. After the dealer's tank has been filled with Tydol, the intake pipe is re-sealed and remains sealed until the pump again needs Tydol.

SEALED BY TIDE WATER OIL SALES CORP. TYDOL TAMPERING FORBIDDEN

This is the seal that assures you that you are getting genuine Tydol

Nothing but Tydol goes into the tank, nothing but Tydol can come from the pump.

This sealed pump is the final step in safeguarding the high quality of Tydol every minute from the time it leaves the refinery until it is in the tank of your car.

It is your visible protection against inferior gasolines, your assurance of genuine Tydol.

The Tydol dealer deserves your business

You will find that your Tydol dealer is proud of the sealed pump. It is his proof to you that he sells quality products, honestly represented. He is a good man for you and for your family to deal with. Patronize him regularly.

Fill up with Tydol

Stop at any Tydol pump. You will find it sealed. Have your tank filled with Tydol. Then notice the faster start, the instant pick-up, the rush of power, the smoother quieter motor.

The increased mileage and decreased carbon will leave no doubt in your mind as to why Tydol is called "the economy gasoline."

And you'll readily see why the Tydol dealers want to protect the high quality of this gasoline with the "Seal of Protection".

Zeigler-Deardorff Company,
York, Pa.
Chambersburg Auto Company,
Chambersburg, Pa.

The Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing every Tydol pump. They want to protect the high quality of the Tydol they sell you. They want to give you visible proof that they are selling genuine Tydol and Tydol alone.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE FURNISHED HEART

IT ISN'T what you put into your home for furniture, but how you place that furniture.

Some of the most beautiful homes I have ever been in have been those that were furnished the simplest. It's taste and heart that make a home.

It's just that way with a heart. People ought to have beautifully furnished hearts—not gaudy or expensive, but simple and restful.

There are those of my friends whom I love to be with because I know just how careful and painstaking they have been in furnishing their hearts. After you have been with them for a few moments you know that you are in the midst of peace and beauty. You at once feel, also, the scattered scent of those others who have delighted themselves in those chambers.

People who have furnished their homes with much of themselves like to have their friends come around. When you are left alone in such places you feel your host's presence.

Recently, I spent a night in such a home. My room was simply, though perfectly furnished. There was a large vase of flowers that the wife had gathered from the lovely garden, and vines of roses, and all manner of other flowers scented the air in the cool of the evening.

Many people would be much happier if they did but refurnish their hearts. And many people would be happier if they started inviting a different type of people to those hearts. For people so often help us to refurnish our hearts.

And a furnished heart—even though beautifully furnished—would be a very lonely heart without many people in it!

Mother, don't worry about that skin trouble—apply
Resinol

You need never hesitate to use this gentle, healing ointment for any skin disorder, no matter how aggravated the condition may be, as there is nothing in Resinol which could injure the tenderest skin. It was a doctor's prescription many years ago and has been used by other physicians ever since in treating itching, burning, unsightly skin affections.

It relieves itching at once, reduces inflammation and starts the healing.

Your druggist sells Resinol

The SEALED pump is the dealer's guarantee to you of genuine high quality Tydol

HAVEN'T you sometimes wondered, as you watched gasoline being pumped into the tank of your car, whether you were getting the brand of gasoline you asked for?

There is, in fact, foundation for your doubts. In certain cities, notably New York, thousands of gallons of cheap, inferior gasolines have been sold through pumps which bear the trade-marks of well-known, high-quality gasolines.

That deplorable condition is not wide-spread. Yet Tide Water and the Tydol dealers of this locality want to make certain that inferior gasolines never can be substituted for Tydol. They want to safeguard Tydol's high quality, and make it possible for you to be sure that every drop of gasoline that comes from a Tydol pump is genuine Tydol.

Therefore, Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this city and vicinity.

The sealed Tydol pump

On the intake pipe of every underground tank, which feeds a Tydol pump in this locality, Tide Water has affixed its seal. After the dealer's tank has been filled with Tydol, the intake pipe is re-sealed and remains sealed until the pump again needs Tydol.

SEALED BY TIDE WATER OIL SALES CORP. TYDOL TAMPERING FORBIDDEN

This is the seal that assures you that you are getting genuine Tydol

Nothing but Tydol goes into the tank, nothing but Tydol can come from the pump.

This sealed pump is the final step in safeguarding the high quality of Tydol every minute from the time it leaves the refinery until it is in the tank of your car.

It is your visible protection against inferior gasolines, your assurance of genuine Tydol.

The Tydol dealer deserves your business

You will find that your Tydol dealer is proud of the sealed pump. It is his proof to you that he sells quality products, honestly represented. He is a good man for you and for your family to deal with. Patronize him regularly.

Fill up with Tydol

Stop at any Tydol pump. You will find it sealed. Have your tank filled with Tydol. Then notice the faster start, the instant pick-up, the rush of power, the smoother quieter motor.

The increased mileage and decreased carbon will leave no doubt in your mind as to why Tydol is called "the economy gasoline."

And you'll readily see why the Tydol dealers want to protect the high quality of this gasoline with the "Seal of Protection".

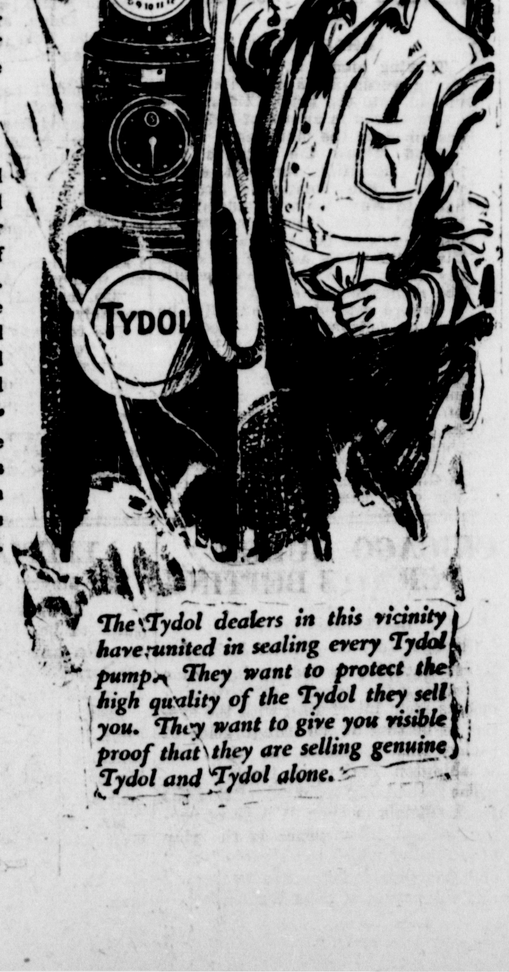
TYDOL
ECONOMY GASOLINE



The Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing every Tydol pump. They want to protect the high quality of the Tydol they sell you. They want to give you visible proof that they are selling genuine Tydol and Tydol alone.

HUSBAND DID THE WASHING
His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.
One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the newspaper to read. Among the advertisements she noticed a letter from another sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
"I'll try it," she decided.
Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.
In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She has told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 5, Brownwood, Texas.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results.

HUSBAND DID THE WASHING

His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.

One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the newspaper to read. Among the advertisements she noticed a letter from another sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I'll try it," she decided.

Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.

In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She has told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 5, Brownwood, Texas.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results.

Enjoys Life For First Time in Twenty Years

Wilkes-Barre Woman Gets Back Long Lost Health and Gains 15 Pounds By Simply Taking Plant Juice.

"For over 20 years I suffered with stomach trouble but this Dillingham's Plant Juice has given me so much relief that I'm glad to recommend it. It's a remarkable medicine," said Mrs. Alice Schrader, 20 W. Market St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"I used to have indigestion so bad that after a while I got so I didn't dare eat hardly anything, as I would be in misery afterwards. It just seemed like nothing I ate would digest and I'd feel sick after every meal. At times I'd be so bloated from gas that I'd be miserable and my appetite was so poor some days I hardly ate enough to keep a canary bird alive. Sometimes I'd just live on a diet of bread and milk.

"I had such awful pains in my back, in the region of my kidneys, that at times they'd simply double me up. I was also bothered a lot with constipation and was so nervous I actually was on the verge of nervous prostration. I couldn't sleep nights and used to have such terrible headaches that they'd almost drive me distracted.

"Then I decided to try Plant Juice and it was the best decision I ever made, because I hadn't been taking it long till I knew it was helping me. Those headaches have left me completely, I don't know what it is to be bloated with gas any more and my nerves are so steady that I sleep fine and get up mornings feeling rested and ready for my housework.

"I've already gained 15 pounds, can eat anything I want now and am never bothered with indigestion or constipation. Those pains have left my back, I never feel tired any more and am really enjoying life for the first time in years. I certainly would not be without Plant Juice now."—adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—adv.

Enjoys Life For First Time in Twenty Years

Wilkes-Barre Woman Gets Back Long Lost Health and Gains 15 Pounds By Simply Taking Plant Juice.

"For over 20 years I suffered with stomach trouble but this Dillingham's Plant Juice has given me so much relief that I'm glad to recommend it. It's a remarkable medicine," said Mrs. Alice Schrader, 20 W. Market St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"I used to have indigestion so bad that after a while I got so I didn't dare eat hardly anything, as I would be in misery afterwards. It just seemed like nothing I ate would digest and I'd feel sick after every meal. At times I'd be so bloated from gas that I'd be miserable and my appetite was so poor some days I hardly ate enough to keep a canary bird alive. Sometimes I'd just live on a diet of bread and milk.

"I had such awful pains in my back, in the region of my kidneys, that at times they'd simply double me up. I was also bothered a lot with constipation and was so nervous I actually was on the verge of nervous prostration. I couldn't sleep nights and used to have such terrible headaches that they'd almost drive me distracted.

"Then I decided to try Plant Juice and it was the best decision I ever made, because I hadn't been taking it long till I knew it was helping me. Those headaches have left me completely, I don't know what it is to be bloated with gas any more and my nerves are so steady that I sleep fine and get up mornings feeling rested and ready for my housework.

"I've already gained 15 pounds, can eat anything I want now and am never bothered with indigestion or constipation. Those pains have left my back, I never feel tired any more and am really enjoying life for the first time in years. I certainly would not be without Plant Juice now."—adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—adv.
